

Element 8

Well Scouts, this section is all on your shoulders. Look at Pages 89-91. The Merit Badge Series on Radio has a very good overview of Broadcast radio. Don't forget TV, electrical engineering and all those ancillary positions at those particular facilities.

Also, not mentioned, although Ham Radio (Amateur Radio) is known as "Hobby Radio" there are jobs in those industries. MFJ in Mississippi hires a significant number of bench technicians, electrical engineers, circuit and antenna designers. The job market in that area is very fruitful.

You may not know or even desire to enter these areas, but the purpose of this element is to expose you at this young age to the possibilities open to you. I would like to know your responses.
